

Competify Applauds FCC Tech Transition Vote

August 6, 2015

Competify, a diverse group of Internet advocates, trade groups, and companies, released the statement below in response to today's FCC Tech Transition vote.

Today, the FCC takes a big step in ensuring the nation's transition to Internet protocol-based networks are as consumer and competition-friendly as possible. The Chairman and his colleagues have worked to ensure consumers have access to competitive broadband options before, during and after this transition. We'll continue to urge the Chairman and his colleagues to Try Competify at every opportunity and we look forward to continuing our work with them on addressing the problem of broadband access control.

Competify Partners for the Cure include: Ad Hoc Telecommunications Users Committee, Broadband Coalition, BT, Competitive Carriers Association (CCA), COMPTel, Computer & Communications Industry Association (CCIA), Engine, Schools, Health and Libraries Coalition (SHLB), Level 3, Public Knowledge, Sprint and XO.
